The Prize Winner!

"HEY, Louise!" Bea rushed into the ice cream parlor breathless, and wrapped her legs around a stool at the counter. "Did you get your paints yet?"

Louise jabbed her straw into a chocolate covered bubble in her soda and stared at it as it burst. "No," she answered without looking up, "my allowance won't stand for it."

"Well, don't look so beat, I have news." Bea squirmed on her seat as she looked over the menu on the wall.

"I'm hungry," she announced to the clerk, "what's good?"

"In the sandwich line," the soda jerk said, "we've got egg salad, tuna, cheese and olives . . ."

"What do you mean you've got news for me?" Louise interrupted.

Bea didn't seem to hear her. She gazed up at the menu and finally said, "I'm really hungry. Get me a double banana split."

The soda jerk walked away to fill the order.

"The news—give!" Louise said impatiently.

"You can't get those paints because your allowance won't stretch, right?" Bea asked. "Well, don't worry because I've found a place where you can get your paints for less."

"Oh, is that the news?" Louise went back to her soda. "I thought you really had something."

"Don't be a drip!" Bea continued, "And listen to me. You don't need all the colors. And you've got to enter this art contest if for no other reason than to show up Jane. The only thing she can do well is spend her father's money. It's the easiest thing in the world to beat her. She can't draw. And besides, think of Eddie. When they pin that medal on you he'll break his athletic neck in trying to date you . . ."

Bea stopped abruptly as the soda jerk slid the double banana split toward her in an oversized dish.

Louise blushed a little as Bea brought up Eddie. Tall, handsome Eddie with a smile that made her feel as if she would melt. Winning the art contest of course would not put her on his three letter level, but it would certainly make her stand out in the crowd. Jane's father had money, and Jane stood out with her expensive clothes and chauffeured car. And even with that flash, Eddie was undecided about Jane. The art contest might help him decide, thought Louise. It might help a lot.

"That's gratitude," grumbled Bea, her mouth full of ice cream and bananas with a little syrup running down the corner of her chin, "I walk my feet off trying to find paints for you," she gulped, "and then this is the thanks I get."

"It's no use," Louise slowly finished her soda, "I just haven't the money to buy a set of paints."

"Must you have a complete set?" Bea tried to wipe the syrup off her face, and then gave up, "I mean couldn't you paint something you could afford? Something in one color. Like a—a chocolate soda."

Louise's face lit up. "Of course. A subject like that wouldn't take too much. Where is this place that sells paints?"

"Well, you know Tourist's Point?"

Louise nodded. That is where artists from neighboring points come to paint the bay. Art schools send their students at least once a year to the Point for sea scapes. It was well known for the artistic crowd it drew.

Bea tried to talk, but the cold ice cream was too much for her. She finally gasped and said, "There is a small art shop at Tourist's Point where the owner makes his own paints and sells for less."

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR MONEY BACK

"What are we waiting for?" Louise slid off her stool. "Let's go."

"Wait 'til I finish this banana split," Bea bent her head forward and bit into a small piece of fruit covered with whipped cream, nuts and syrup. "Gosh," she exclaimed, "but I'm hungry!"

. . . "When you buy this canvas you do not merely buy a painting, but you buy my soul!"

Jane was a little annoyed at this short fat artist with the long flowing hair who insisted on giving her a sales talk. She wished he would keep his voice down. This was one place that she did not wish to be seen and especially in the position of haggling with an artist.

The painting rested on a small easel on the pier that jutted out into the bay. Even with Jane's unpracticed eye, the picture looked professional. Professional enough to win an amateur contest

"Never mind the soul," she told him hotly, "do you or don't you want to sell this painting?"

He drew himself up as high as his full five foot frame would allow and said, "I do not spread paint on canvas for the mere delight of selling it. Unfortunately," and he patted part of his stomach affectionately, "one must eat!"

Jane pointed to the lower corner of the painting. "And I'll want your name removed and mine put in its place. I'll sign it myself," she added

"What!" shouted the artist, "remove the name of Moersby from an original Moersby painting? Surely, young lady your senses have left you! You may as well ask me to remove the moon from the heavens or rearrange the firmament. . . ."

"How much extra will it cost?" Jane asked bluntly.

The artist smiled. "You have an understanding beyond your years." He coughed slightly, "Of course we can come to terms . . ."

Jane opened her purse, "I'll give you my address, and you can send your bill to my father."

Jane had the sudden feeling that she was being watched. She turned quickly and saw a familiar figure walk into a store. It looked like Louise. She felt panicky for a moment and then decided the best course would be to leave the neighborhood at once. She picked up the painting and moved quickly toward the car.

The paintings hung on the gym wall, and the judges walked around discussing the various entrants

"Looks good for your side." Louise turned to find Eddie flashing a large smile at her. She blushed a little.

"Just overheard one of the judges say that he liked yours best." He squeezed her hand and left. "Good luck," he called over his shoulder.

Louise had heard that he and Jane had a date after the contest. Jane must have felt quite certain of winning. She had bought a painting, and her name was signed to it. Alongside of the other entrants, Jane's painting stood out. It was good

One of the judges got up on a chair, and cleared his voice. A sudden hush fell over the room

"We, the judges, find the entries 9, 22, and 5 the winners — in that order!"

Louise felt her heart skip a beat. Twenty-two was her painting of a chocolate soda done in four colors. She had won second prize! She hastily looked at her program, although she felt sure that nine was Jane. The program verified it. Her heart sank. She could have told the judges what she had seen at Tourist's Point, but the time to speak was before the contest. Now they would simply laugh it off as sour grapes And she was so sure that some one would recognize Jane's painting as too professional for a school girl

"Not a bad try." It was Eddie at her side trying to console her. "Many's the time I've come in in second place. And that subject you picked looks so real, it makes me thirsty! What do you say," and Eddie gave her one of those earnest smiles that made Louise forget all about the contest, "we go out for a chocolate soda? A real one."

He took her arm before she could murmur an embarrassed protest and steered her to the door On their way out, they passed Jane surrounded by the judges. One of them was pinning a medal to her coat. She was thanking the judges as Eddie came into view.

"Oh, Eddie," Jane called, "I'll be through here in about a half hour."

"Don't rush on my account," Eddie told her And then Louise felt a warm glow as she heard Eddie tell Jane, "And the next time you see Roger Moersby, do me a favor and tell him that his cousin Eddie asked you to say hello!"

PATSY WALKER

Get Rid of UGLY PIMPLES this new easy way!

Amazing new medicated lotion developed by a doctor works wonders by clearing up complexion in one week or less!

DON'T let a bad complexion ruin romance, spoil your fun, cause you to be embarrassed, shy or ashamed. If you suffer from acne, the common external cause of pimples among young people, try this wonderfully effective medicated lotion that was developed by a practicing physician to clear up his own teen ager's complexion after other methods had failed. It has produced astonishing results for many thousands of others. It is GUARANTEED to help you or it won't cost you a single cent!

Doesn't Show On Your Face

Keraplex is a skin-colored lotion (NOT a greasy salve or ointment!) that is quickly absorbed by the skin and gets right down in the pores where its healing and antiseptic ingredients can go to work. After you have applied it, there is no trace left on the surface. In fact, it makes a perfect powder base for girls and a refreshing after shaving lotion for men . . . actually improves the tone of the skin! It is pleasant and easy to use — leaving your skin soft, clean and fragrant.

Boys and girls—if you have pimples on your shoulders or back, you can avoid embarrassment when they are exposed to view. For Keraplex keeps your shoulders, arms, back and chest wonderfully free from pimples—without soiling clothes, without messiness or greasiness!

Works in SIX Out of SEVEN Cases!

An analysis of RESULTS taken from actual case histories proves that Keraplex is successful in clearing up six of every seven cases of externally caused blackheads and pimples. It tones up the complexion generally, giving it a healthy, radiant glow.

Try This New Method Without Risking A Penny!

Keraplex is GUARANTEED to clear up your skin troubles or there will be NO COST to you whatsoever. If yours happens to be the ONE extra-stubborn case out of seven which Keraplex cannot help in one short week, it will cost you nothing to have tried it. Keraplex is sent to you with that simple, positive GUARANTEE!

SEND NO MONEY

You need send no money with the coupon below. When postman delivers your Keraplex lotion (in plain wrapper marked "Personal"), deposit with him only the modest price indicated below, plus a few cents postage. Then use your Keraplex morning and night for a full week, following the simple directions which will be enclosed.

If you do not SEE RESULTS that delight you — if you are not fully convinced that Keraplex IS clearing up your complexion — just return the empty bottle or unused portion and the purchase price will be refunded in full. Don't delay a single day. The longer you let your skin troubles go, the more difficult it will be to clear them up and get your complexion back to a healthy, clear, unblemished condition!
